the hamlet of Jamestown dates to the early gold rush discovered in August 1848 the Woods Creek placers at Jamestown eventually yielded millions of dollars in gold when the easily mined placer gold gave out the town remained a trade and supply depot for mining higher in the foothills with a prime location on the roads from the central valley from the 1890s to 1910s the hard rock mining era known as the second gold rush granted new life to the town surrounded as it is by the mother lode itself but it was the coming of the Sierra Railway in 1897 that cemented Jamestown's status transporting the bounty of Tuolumne County's natural resources including minerals cattle produce and lumber to the waiting markets in California and across the country the railroad also facilitated three major dam construction projects from the 1910s to the 1940s and brought many film crews to the area

Maine was recently ranked ninth in the nation concerning fatalities caused by collisions with utility poles based on miles of travel the number of collisions and fatalities can be reduced significantly with an updated utility pole placement policy Maine's current policy relocates poles only when a section of roadway is reconstructed or rehabilitated this practice of relocating poles is too slow to reduce the number of vehicle utility pole collisions this study was carried out to identify the common factors involved in vehicle utility pole collisions and suggest corrective measures to update the current policy to aid in reducing the high number of collisions with utility poles
